Implementation of the 2007 Florida Building Code has been further extended until March 1, 2009

The State of Florida has further extended the implementation of the 2007 Florida Building Code until March 1, 2009. This action has been taken in order to facilitate the availability of appropriate software updates, to correlate with the release of the Florida Fire Prevention Code, and to provide staff sufficient transition time.

The Florida Building Commission cast a unanimous vote regarding this matter on June 9, 2008. Building permit applications submitted on or after the March 1, 2009 date must demonstrate compliance with the new code. Likewise, Florida Building Commission approved products must demonstrate compliance with the new code edition by the effective date.
