New Enhancements to the Express Permits Service

In our continuing effort to provide enhanced services, the Construction Services has made changes to the online Express Permits service available on our website at www.tampagov.net/permits. The new permit fee schedule, which went into effect on January 1, 2009, incorporated an all-inclusive fee for building permits issued on construction projects, thereby allowing sub-contractors to add associated electrical, plumbing or mechanical permits at no additional cost.

As of October 1, 2009, the Express Permits service will allow trade permits to be added to existing building permits, with no additional payment required by the sub-contractor. If a subcontractor is not specifically identified at the time the building permit is issued, the subcontractor may simply go to the online Express Permit service and obtain the permit at no additional cost.

These exciting changes allow our customers to use the online Express Permits service from their home or office, thus avoiding any delay and eliminating the need to visit the Construction Services Center.
