

Tampa Heights Riverfront CRA Special Event Co-Sponsorship Program

Tampa Heights Riverfront is one of the City of Tampa's most oldest and diverse neighborhoods. It has several relaxing green spaces, such as the riverside Water Works Park, with picnic spots, play areas, and the restored Ulele Spring. Repurposed warehouse Armature Works is home to Heights Public Market Food Hall and Grassroots galleries that display edgy work by local artists.

In recent years, Tampa Heights has seen new people flow into the area aiming to restore it. Many new businesses have opened in the area. A new development called "The Heights of Tampa" has begun. The project is mixed use for residential and commercial. New developments also include Armature Works, which is a 73,000 square foot space that consists of event spaces, trendy restaurants and bars, workspaces. The building dates back to 1910. It was originally a warehouse that stored TECO Streetcars. One way to access, Armature Works is by walking along the Tampa Riverwalk.

Ross Avenue bound Tampa Heights to the north, Tampa Street to the east, and to the North side of 275 and River to the south. This excludes the block north of Palm and east of Highland.

The population of the area continues to increase. Residents and Tampa Bay area residents alike would like to have more activities and special events located within the area. To assist in the attraction of events the Tampa Heights Riverfront CRA is offering reimbursement of fees paid to the City of Tampa relating to the event permits and fees. The Tampa Heights Riverfront CRA Advisory Committee is proud to support special events and activities that help to promote economic growth and cultural enrichment in downtown.
